TEXT TERRITORY v. 2.3

THE STORY SO FAR...

Grace Campbell, a Legal Secretary arrives home on Friday evening to prepare herself for her first real date with Jerome. At the moment she drops her keys on the kitchen table, the text arrives from J - he's been delayed but will be there soon. From optimism to despair from knowing to kneeling in prayer Grace's dilemmas and insecurities unfold as she figures out what to do with this unexpected time on her hands. Together with the influence of the audience she decides exactly what to wear, who she might call if he doesn't show up as well as trying to reassemble a photofit image of what Jerome really looks like. After all they had only met in a dimly lit club going on for two weeks ago. Since then all they have been doing is "texting out their territory".

The multi-media, non-linear narrative breaks the line between the Audience and the Performing Artists; it is told through Texting, Dance, Music, Spoken Word and Animation.
